Town in mourning after sad death of councillor

DEBRA FOX

TRIBUTES have been paid to 'tenacious councillor' and popular Haverhill figure, Gordon Cox, who died last week.

Concerns were raised about the welfare of Cllr Cox, who was 66, by his family after they were unable to contact him.

Inspector Peter Ferrie, policing commander for Haverhill, confirmed that officers entered his home, in Hundon Place, and found him dead on Thursday.

Tributes to the councillor have poured in since his death from family, friends, colleagues and ward members.

Cllr Cox is survived by his children Bradley, Sarah, Stuart and Mark, and his 10 grandchildren.

Bradley, 29, spoke of his father's love for football and refereeing – and his love of "having a moan" on local issues.

He added: "He's quite well known in the area with local football teams and he would always be out and about finding things to moan about."

Daughter Sarah, 37, said: "He was a fantastic dad to all of us and he loved us all. We're just going to miss him terribly."

A minute's silence was held at league football matches at the weekend and a tribute to Cllr Cox has been placed at the First World War memorial sundial in East Town Park.

Cllr Tony Brown, a fellow borough councillor and UKIP member, paid tribute to his colleague's tireless work for the town and its people.

REMEMBERED:
Cllr Gordon Cox.

"He was one of those people who could always make you laugh," Cllr Brown said. "He was tenacious and as a councillor he would never let anything go."

Cllr John Griffiths, leader of St Edmundsbury, hailed Cllr Cox as a "valuable member" of the borough council.

He said: "I was shocked and extremely sorry to hear that Cllr Gordon Cox passed away suddenly and unexpectedly.

"His absolute passion for Haverhill shone through in everything he did.

"Cllr Cox was a lively character and will be very much missed by us all.

"I, and every borough councillor, send our condolences to his family."

Cllr Cox represented Haverhill East and was first elected in 2004.

In recent weeks he had been working on improvements to Strasbourg Square and assisting residents across town with complaints on social housing.

Chris Cullum, local resident, said he will remember Cllr Cox as "Mr Haverhill" because he loved the town so much.

Mr Cullum, 48, said: "He was a very good councillor, always on the ball with issues which residents brought up.

"He has also been a great referee to all the young people who play football. He will be sadly missed by them – even those he gave a red card."

Matthew Hancock, West Suffolk MP, has spoken of his enjoyment of working alongside Cllr Cox for five years.

He said: The whole of Haverhill will be sad to hear of the death of Councillor Gordon Cox.

"I enjoyed working with Gordon over the past five years. He was dedicated to serving Haverhill in his own inimitable way and he will be missed by all."

The councillor was "fearless" at sticking up for his community, he added.

At the time the Weekly News went to print, arrangements had yet to be finalised for Cllr Cox's funeral.

NEGLECTED? Strasbourg Square. The Vixen pub, above right, is thought to have been closed for around five years.

Is this the most run down part of Haverhill?

DEBRA FOX

ONCE the beating heart of one of Haverhill's busiest estates, this square is now looking tired and in desperate need of a revamp.

This is the message from councillors, residents, police and businesses alike, who are calling for improvements to Strasbourg Square.

The square, on the Chalkstone Estate, was once the heart of the area – but it has been allowed to fall into disrepair.

Cllr Tony Brown, who represents Haverhill East on both St Edmundsbury Borough Council and Suffolk County Council, is one of those leading calls for improvements.

The former Vixen pub, which has been closed for around five years, is being hailed as the "eyesore" of the square – and bringing it back into use would be the first step in improving the area, Cllr Brown said.

"It is not acceptable just to let this place be left as such an eyesore in a main focal point of our estate," he said.

At a planning meeting last week, Colin Poole, town clerk, told members that the pub's owners, R Gwinnell & Sons funeral directors, had been advised to secure the site, and repair broken windows.

The pub has been the target of anti-social behaviour in the past, with windows being smashed, graffiti being drawn on the brick and litter being dumped behind the building.

The company took over the pub with the intention of turning it into a funeral parlour. A change of use application to the borough council in 2012 was later withdrawn.

TASKFORCE: Sgt Matt Gilbert, Cllr Tony Brown and Insp Peter Ferrie in Strasbourg Square

More pressure needs to be put on the company to transform the pub, Cllr Brown said, which would be "perfect" for pop-up shops below, and flats above.

No-one at R Gwinnell & Sons was available to comment.

Strasbourg Square is also home to popular takeaway Chippy's, the On Track children's centre, the Chalkstone Community Centre and a Londis convenience store.

The area has "enormous" footfall due to the takeaway, shop and children's centre, Cllr Brown said.

Glenn Edwards, partner at Chippy's, and Amrik Singh Rai, owner at Londis, agree that something needs to be done.

Mr Edwards said: "The area just needs refreshing."

The square is "too dark" in the winter and businesses and residents alike would benefit from more lighting, Mr Rai added.

There are also concerns about the surfacing across the square which is like a "patchwork quilt", and only repaired sporadically.

There are fears that footfall would decrease if the closure of On Track goes ahead as proposed. Under plans from Suffolk County Council, the centre is set to merge with the Cartwheels centre on the Clements Estate.

A consultation is under way. Cllr Gordon Cox, who died last week, was also working on a plan for the square.

A spokesman for St Edmundsbury Borough Council said a report on resurfacing work for the square is being drawn up, and a project will be presented to the Haverhill Area Working Party in December.

He added: "Cllr Cox was lobbying for improvements and had met with council officers on site to discuss the issue."

A new care home, Cleves Place, is being built by Care UK on the site of the former Chalkstone Middle School. It is due to open in January.

Report any anti-social behaviour to us, say town police

ANTI-social behaviour and potential drug use in Strasbourg Square was voted in by the public last month as a new policing priority.

Sgt Matt Gilbert, of the SNT, and Inspector Peter Ferrie, policing commander, are asking the public to be vigilant in reporting crimes.

Sgt Gilbert said: "Regular patrols have been carried out and we have ABCs (acceptable behaviour contracts) on two individuals. "We will deal with complaints when they come."

The area does not have a "high level" of problems – but the empty Vixen pub does attract anti-social behaviour, they said.

Inspector Ferrie added: "We don't want the rundown nature of the Vixen to be an attraction for youths who might be tempted to cause ASB."

The next Haverhill Safer Neighbourhood Team (SNT) meeting is in December.

The academy's student ambassadors were on hand to help with the tour and answer questions from prospective families.

Howard Lay, executive principal of Samuel Ward, also gave presentations at the event.

Hundreds attend MP's jobs fair

DEBRA FOX

THE region's MP has congratulated Haverhill employers for their hard work in securing jobs.

Matthew Hancock, West Suffolk MP and skills minister, spoke of how proud he is of Haverhill at his annual jobs fair held at the Arts Centre on Friday.

He said: "I want to pay tribute to all of the employers and people at the jobs centre who have worked so hard over the last three years.

"Over the last year, the number of people unemployed has fallen by half, and the number of people under the age of 25 who are unemployed has fallen by two thirds.

"This is an incredible achievement."

He added: "It's been a real community effort and it's fantastic for everyone who's got a job, but there's still lots more work to do because any person unemployed is one too many."

Hundreds of people attended the event, which ran from 10am until 12.30pm, to find out more about local job opportunities and apprenticeships.

There were also a range of workshops on offer, including tips on writing a CV.

The jobs fair was supported by many companies and organisations, including both Castle Manor and Samuel Ward Academies, Crem Recruitment, Community Action Suffolk and 1st Stop Recruitment.

Haverhill's academies have both been hiring apprentices, and have praised the success of the valuable scheme.

Castle Manor will soon have five apprentices working across IT, business and learning support.

Matthew Gibson, head of school, said: "It's great for us, it's great for them, and it's great for the community.

"We are thrilled about the whole thing, and it is great to have this opportunity to recruit apprentices."

Howard Lay, executive principal of Samuel Ward, said there are opportunities available across schools in their trust, including the recently adopted Newmarket Academy.

"The thing I have found about apprentices is that they are very enthusiastic, and it's a great model," Mr Lay said.

"They get quality support and training and hopefully it helps them find a suitable career or job."

This year's job fair had the highest number of people offering and looking for jobs than in previous years, the MP said, with current school pupils also attending for tips to help them in the future.

He added: "I think the annual jobs fair is an institution and that it's here to stay."

Christmas card design competition

BUDDING artists are getting their chance to shine with a Christmas card competition.

Days Inn Haverhill has enlisted the help of the town's primary schools to help with this year's card design.

Pupils from Years 5 and 6 will be drawing pictures to show what Christmas means to them, for a chance to appear on the hotel's annual card.

Entrants will be judged by Donna Revell, the hotel's general manager, Helen Chaplin, site manager at Haverhill Research Park and Jon Adkin, artist, photographer and children's author.

Donna said: "Every year we have a card printed and thought it would be great to involve the local schools.

"It will be interesting to see what it means for our young people."

The winning child will host a party for their classmates at the hotel's function room, and their school will receive a supply of the winning card.

Cards will also be sent to all of the hotel's contacts.

Grow to the pantomime

CHILDREN can put their gardening skills to the test – and win a trip to the pantomime.

Haverhill Arts Centre and Sturmer Nurseries are launching a beanstalk competition in line with this year's Jack and the Beanstalk.

From October 25, budding gardeners can collect their bean from the Nurseries with this voucher.

Entrants must present their stalks to the Arts Centre on December 6 or the Nurseries on December 7.

The boy and girl with the tallest entries will win a family ticket each. Call 01440 714140.

First triathlon comes to town

DEBRA FOX

ATHLETICS history was made for the second time in Haverhill this year with an inaugural triathlon.

More than 170 people competed across three different courses on Sunday – with the crowds turning out to cheer on the athletes, including MP Matthew Hancock.

The swim took place at Haverhill Leisure Centre, the cycling took competitors through the Essex villages and the final stage – the run – travelled along the old railway line, through East Town Park and Sturmer.

Jack Tappin, race director, said: "HaverTri was a great event and it was brilliant to see so many people sharing my passion for bringing premier athletics events to Haverhill."

"I hope it will return in 2015 with an improved experience for all involved, though the next challenge begins with the confirmed return of Haver10 and HaverHalf next year."

Mr Tappin also organised the town's first half marathon and 10k, which took place in May.

On Sunday, Ollie Trent, 14, came first in the Super Sprint distance, and Sorcha Barnes, 13, was first female. Pip Moore won the day's Sprint distance, with Charlotte Smith as first woman.

The longest distance, Sprint + was won by Paul Ruffy. Rachel Barnes was the first woman home.

HaverTri was raising money for the town's Scouts and Guides' hut building fund. The total will be revealed at a later date.

Duncan Batty, group scout leader at 1st Haverhill Scouts, said: "There was a clear link between what the competitors, many of whom had not entered a triathlon before, wanted from the event and what modern Scouting stands for – fun and adventure."

The event was sponsored by Haverhill Research Park, and also supported by other local businesses and councillors.

Man, 72, pleads guilty to sex offences

A PENSIONER who used to live in Haverhill has admitted committing sexual offences in the town.

Robert Roach, 72, appeared in Ipswich Crown Court on Monday and pleaded guilty to two counts of indecent assault.

The offences took place between October 18, 1980 and October 17, 1981 and between July 17, 2000 and September 10, 2000 against two young teenage girls.

Christopher Paxton, prosecuting, told the court that both offences represented a breach of trust.

Judge David Goodin said: "The offences to which you have pleaded guilty are very serious ones."

"They plainly cross the custody threshold."

"Because of the age of them the court has to sentence you with the maximum sentences available at the time."

Judge Goodin added that sentencing would have been "considerably higher" had the offences taken place more recently.

Roach, now of Brewers Yard, Southminster, Essex, has been granted bail until sentencing on November 5.

Super scary!

ON the weekend of the 11th and 12th of October, staff from Superdrug stores across the country will be transforming stores into a ghoulie Halloween paradise, all in the name of raising money for Marie Curie, Superdrug's official charity partner.

Staff are encouraging people to come along and support the charity by purchasing exclusive Superdrug daffodil pin badges, popping any spare change into collection buckets or buy some special edition Superdrug Marie Curie products such as face wipes, lip balm or an umbrella as well as getting involved in lots of family fun.

To date, Superdrug staff and customers have raised a phenomenal £600,000 for Marie Curie, with the aim of raising £750,000 by the end of 2014. The money raised so far is enough to fund 32 Marie Curie nurses for an entire year.

All the money raised will help Marie Curie care for more people living with terminal illness across the UK, as well as providing essential emotional support for loved ones.

■ CHILDREN at Stepping Stones pre-school have been enjoying the autumn term with a range of fun events.

The little ones learned more about the emergency services following visits from both police officers and firefighters.

Children explored the police van and fire engine, and even tried their hand with the hose.

The school has started this month by celebrating Grandparents Day, with a special breakfast for children and their families, held on Saturday.

During the morning, children created pictures, played with dough and enjoyed the equipment outside.

The event was also attended by Cllr Roger André, town mayor, and his wife Pauline.

Elaine McManus, manager at Stepping Stones, said: "I would like to thank all the children who came along and thank them for bringing their grandparents with them."

"Thanks to those grandparents that took the time to come and see what we do within our pre-school."

MP sorry for 'queer' tweet about Labour

AN MP has apologised after accidentally tweeting an "offensive" comment about the Labour party.

Matthew Hancock, skills minister and MP for West Suffolk, was sharing poems on his Twitter feed to coincide with National Poetry Day.

It is reported that one of them, which he later deleted, said: "The party run by young Ed / Is quietly going quite dead / Bereft of ideas / Quite full of queers / No wonder the faithful have fled."

Mr Hancock did not write the poem, but retweeted it from another user.

Shortly afterwards, the MP tweeted an apology saying the retweet was an "accident" and that he disagreed with the "offensive comment".

He said: "Previous RT was a total accident. I wholeheartedly disagree with offensive comment in the tweet & am incredibly sorry for any offence caused."

The MP has more than 17,000 followers on Twitter.

In response to his apology, Lord Ashcroft, former deputy chairman of the Conservative party, said: "It happens on Twitter! Your response ASAP to your credit."

Exercise champions reveal active lifestyle

DEBRA FOX

A GROUP of new active ambassadors have been revealed in a bid to inspire exercise across St Edmundsbury.

A headteacher, a mum-of-three and a group of friends have been chosen as cover stars who will champion exercise – and share their stories on how being active has changed their lives for the better.

Joan Horner, headteacher of Clare Community Primary School, works out five or six days a week, and is encouraging physical activity in her school.

In 2012, the teacher struggled to walk to her house from her car due to hip problems, frozen shoulders and arthritis. Now, she's unstoppable.

She said: "Coming to the gym has made a huge difference to my physical wellbeing and I think I'm proof that you don't have to be young, already fit, or thin to start exercising, even if only in a small way."

Barbara Leverett, a veteran triathlete and retired PE teacher, has joined the campaign alongside Mel Yule, of Aragon Road, who started exercising to lose weight.

Barbara, who still cycles between 100 and 150 miles a week, said exercising has psychological benefits, as well as physical.

Mel, who has lost one and a half stone in two years, attends the gym twice a week and goes swimming.

LAUNCH: The cover stars pictured at Haverhill Leisure Centre on Monday.

She said: "I hope I can inspire other people by telling them how successful I have been."

Jenny Shepherd, of Kedington, wanted to become more active to keep up with her children.

The mum meets with her friends twice a week to exercise and socialise all in one go.

More than 30 people have agreed to become campaign cover stars, in Haverhill and Bury St Edmunds, over the last three years.

Matt Hickey, Abbeycroft's health, fitness and physical activity development manager, said: "There is nothing more powerful to inspire people into getting more active than hearing the stories of people just like them reaping the benefits of being fitter and healthier."

Visit acleisure.com/active-campaign to read the cover stars' stories.

Accused priest, 56, appears in court

A PRIEST accused of fraud has made his first appearance at crown court.

The Rev Ian Finn, 56, appeared at Ipswich Crown Court last Thursday before Judge John Devaux.

It is alleged that Finn, who was arrested at his home in Hopton Rise, Haverhill, in March, paid £13,204 in "church service fees" to himself, instead of to the Diocese of St Edmundsbury and Ipswich.

This is alleged to have taken place between June 2007, and March of this year, in relation to his work at St Mary the Virgin church, Haverhill.

Finn was charged by Suffolk Police in August, and entered a not guilty plea at Bury St Edmunds Magistrates' Court last month.

A provisional trial date was set for February next year.

Judge Devaux told the priest, who has been on extended leave from his position since February, that he will continue to be granted unconditional bail until his next court appearance.

Finn will return to court on December 19 for a plea case and management hearing.

Daisy the dog takes home community award prize

A VERY special pooch has been honoured at an Oscars-style ceremony.

Daisy the Labrador, who lives with Pat and Keith Sheffield in Clare, took home a Pride of Cambridge Community Award last week.

The hardworking dog was amongst the region's unsung heroes at Howard Theatre at Downing College, Cambridge, where she and her owners took home the Judges' Special Award – and a crunchy bone as a bonus.

Daisy did not make it through guide dog training – but instead spends her days bringing joy to children, elderly people – and her doting owners.

The 8-year-old Labrador is a Pets As Therapy (PAT) dog.

Pat, 65, takes Daisy to Churchill Special School in Haverhill once a week, as part of the Pets As Therapy Read2Dogs programme.

The children read out loud, with Daisy by their side.

Pat said: "You can definitely see that they have gained confidence through the dog being there. I feel like she's doing something that the guide dogs would approve of, and that all the money put into her training has not been wasted."

Pupils at Churchill can have language and communication difficulties, autism, Asperger's syndrome or other difficulties.

Pat and Daisy also make regular visits to Churchill Close and Abbeyfield in Clare.

Other awards recipients included Sam Wilson, 18, from Ely, who won the Young Achiever award and Julian Dodman, 15, from St Neots, who won the Star of the Year award.

Paul Brackley, Cambridge News editor, added: "None of the people receiving the awards ever seek the spotlight."

"They just quietly get on with what they do, expecting no reward, and no recognition either. But we believe their achievements should be celebrated."

Opinion split over work on Havebury homes

DEBRA FOX

RENDERING work carried out on social housing to improve insulation has continued to divide opinion across the town.

Homes owned by Havebury Housing Partnership on Haverhill's Birds Estate are being transformed, with existing pebble dash being removed in favour of smooth render, painted yellow.

As previously reported in the Weekly News, the cladding work was allowed by St Edmundsbury Borough Council under "permitted development" – which means the new look has to be "similar" to the previous appearance.

Residents living near to the homes have voiced concerns that the homes now "stand out" and can be clearly identified as social housing, while others are welcoming the modern change to the properties' exterior.

A woman, who has lived on Gannet Close for seven years and privately rents her home, has welcomed the work – but thinks the colour should have been different. The woman, who did not want to be named, said: "It does tell everybody that somebody is living in a council house – the colour doesn't fit in at all.

"The work is a good thing, but it's not nice to see all the yellow."

A note was put through the woman's door before work started, she said, but she was not offered the option to buy into the scheme and have similar work done to her home. Another resident, who has lived in Gannet Close for 15 years, suggested a similar colour to the pebble dash would have been more appropriate.

Speaking to the Weekly News, she said: "You still get people in this day and age who say 'you live in a council house'. It shouldn't, but it does happen."

She added: "The work itself is fine, but the colour is horrible. If it was a different colour it would be fine."

Other residents have expressed their support for the scheme on Facebook, with one saying "Havebury are only making the most of the properties they own".

Others have commented on the "lovely colour", which they say has brightened up the estate.

Hospice Care Week event

A STATE of the art outreach centre is marking a national awareness week.

St Nicholas Hospice Care's outreach centre, on Haverhill's Camps Road, is taking part in Hospice Care Week.

The campaign, which is being celebrated by more than 100 hospices across the UK, launched on Monday and is running until Sunday.

Tomorrow, the Burton Centre is holding a public event on the help and support on offer.

Residents, patients and families are being invited in between 10am and 2pm.

Barbara Gale, chief executive, said: "Hospice Care Week offers a great opportunity to share with people how hospices can help – especially for those who might not realise they are eligible for support."

The centre offers treatments, as well as counselling and emotional support.

Appeal after men assaulted

TWO men were assaulted within minutes of each other in a Haverhill street.

The incidents both took place on Friday, October 3, in the town's Leather Lane.

A man was walking down the street at around 10.50pm when another man asked him for a cigarette.

He was then punched in the face.

The victim described his attacker as a 6ft tall white man, who is of medium build with brown stubble.

He was wearing a black hoody, blue jeans and white Nike Air Max trainers.

The second assault reportedly took place at 10.55pm.

The victim, who could not provide a description of his attacker, received a cut to the lip, and the back of the head.

He was taken to hospital.

If you have any information contact Haverhill Police on 101.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Help out transport group

BUSINESSES and statutory bodies are being urged to support transport organisations across Suffolk.

A range of community operators need more custom and support to survive, it has been warned.

There are many services operating across the county to provide a lifeline for those living in isolated locations.

Susannah Waters, chief executive of Suffolk Community Transport, said the services also allow people to attend appointments, go shopping and socialise.

Maths project gets £60k

A COUNTY initiative to improve schools has pledged thousands to a maths project.

The West Suffolk Maths Collaborative project, which aims to secure outstanding outcomes in maths over a five year period, has been awarded £60,000 from Raising the Bar.

Twenty seven primary schools will take part in the maths project.

The Raising the Bar challenge fund was set up in June this year, and invites schools to bid for funding.

THREE months of bake sales, car washes and selfies have helped raise more than £70,000 for a hospice charity.

Haverhill businesses are celebrating after weeks of hard work, in the Towergate Accumulator Challenge for St Nicholas Hospice Care, which started in June.

Jacobs Allen, Sanofi, 1 Accounts Online, HID Global, Samuel Ward Academy and CXG Property Services took part in the fundraiser – which sees each participant given washes, cake sales, band evenings and a video game tournament. They came in third place overall, and were shortlisted for the Community Award.

CXG raised £80 through a “silly selfie” scheme, as well as being nominated for the Most Innovative Idea category.

The challenge has been running for five years – and raised £21,500 in 2013.

Abby Mayes, hospice corporate fundraiser has praised the “imagination and level of commitment” from all businesses taking part.

Brave Adam takes home YOPEY prize

A YOUNG man who has become a mentor to the victims of homophobic bullying is Cambridgeshire's Young Person of the Year.

Adam Olivant, of Shetland Road, Haverhill won the top prize of £800 in the Cambridge Regional College Pearce Young People of the Year held at Ely Cathedral on October 1.

The 19-year-old gives young people the support he was denied while a child at schools in Haverhill where he said “my life was made hell by bullies”.

At Long Road Sixth-Form College he set up a Beat Bullying group and converted a Lesbian Gay Bisexual Transgender (LGBT) group into a Gay-Straight Alliance.

Having left college this summer and started a job in IT at Addenbrooke's hospital, he is continuing to mentor the victims of bullying online for the charity Beat Bullying and may go back to Long Road to help the groups he started.

Judges, who included the Queen's Cambridgeshire representatives, mayors and MPs, as well as young people, were particularly impressed by Adam's tackling of homophobia.

He said: “I didn't have a group to go to.

“So I felt it was important that others didn't struggle in the same way.”

HIGH FLYERS: Nat Ridgway, Emma Ellis and Greg Bush.

Students honoured for exam results

HIGH achieving students have been rewarded for their exam results.

Emma Ellis, Nat Ridgway and Greg Bush, of Castle Manor Academy, travelled to Westminster to attend an exclusive awards ceremony.

The pupils, who were accompanied by their parents and Vanessa Whitcombe, the school's partnership director, each received an award for their success in summer exams.

Mrs Whitcombe said: "It was a very special occasion and I was incredibly proud to be there with the students, who represented all of our class of 2014."

More than 600 schools were present at the event, with each nominating students for an award.

Paralympian Hannah Cockcroft gave out the prizes.

Homes scheme voted through

EIGHT new homes will be built on land near Haverhill's Lower Downs Slade.

The flats, proposed by Havebury Housing Partnership, have been subject to much debate by councillors, with a previous application being amended, then later refused in April.

Last Thursday, members of St Edmundsbury Borough Council's development control committee voted 13 to 2 to approve a new application – with no associated parking for tenants taking on the homes.

The original application was for eight homes with six garages. This was later reduced to four.

Conversations are ongoing as to what will be provided in the way of parking for residents who wish to live there.

Speaking at the meeting, Cllr Maureen Byrne said she was supporting the plans – but with "reservations".

She said: "Haverhill Town Council welcomed the improvements and I would confirm we desperately need this housing in Haverhill but the carparking issue has got to be resolved."

The town council suggested that permits be arranged for the nearby short stay car park, she said.

Dave Beighton, planning officer, told the meeting that conversations had taken place between Havebury and the relevant people at the local authority, but no agreement had been made.

Suffolk County Council highways formally objected to the plans.

The ideal number of parking spaces for the development would be 10, the county council said, but it would accept five due to "the sustainable town centre location".

Cllr Alaric Pugh moved to approve the plans, with Cllr David Ray seconding them.

Cllr Pugh said: "I have to support that Havebury response to the committee's concerns."

Cllr Ray praised the scheme for delivering 100 per cent affordable housing for the town.

Other concerns raised during the meeting included where bins would be placed for collection and how fire escapes would be provided in the building.

Speaking outside the meeting, Scott Bailey, head of development for Havebury, said: "It's been a long time to get that one through and we are pleased that the feedback they gave us last time led to this decision."

'Atrocious' housing plan deferred until parties can come to agreement

PLANNING bosses have declined to make a decision on an "atrocious" housing project to allow residents and developers to come to an agreement.

Developers have been sent back to the drawing board to address claims their 12-house site in Linton will "tower above" the village.

Members of South Cambridgeshire District Council's planning committee voted to defer the decision to give developers and parishioners time to "brush out a decision" between them.

The development was proposed for land off Horseheath Road. A mixture of two and three bedroom houses and bungalows, including some affordable homes, would be built.

Rowan Haysom, development architect, said: "The scheme will provide affordable homes, and there are amenities of primary and secondary schools in the area."

But, opponents to the scheme argued that the affordable houses were too big, and not appropriate for the village's elderly population who would need them.

The committee voted to defer the decision until agreements could be made.

Perfect nonsense

the GUIDE

PERFECT Nonsense has been racking up four star reviews across the board since The Goodale Brothers took P.G.Wodehouse's 1938 novel The Code of the Woosters and ran with it.

It won the 2014 Olivier Award for Best New Comedy and has been making West End audiences borderline hysterical since 2013.

The original Jeeves and Wooster – Stephen Mangan and Matthew Macfadyen, then Robert Webb and Mark Heap – have sadly moved on to be replaced by the beautiful Matt from Channel 4's Teachers, aka James Lance (I'm Alan Partridge), and West End veteran John Gordon Sinclair (The Producers, The Ladykillers).

By all accounts you're in for a side-splitting treat. Wodehouse's legendary characters – the foolish foppish Wooster (Lance) – the kind of man who is incredibly proud when he manages to get his socks on all by himself – and his long-suffering valet Jeeves (Gordon Sinclair) are off on a raucous country house-related escapade.

A classic farce complete with a motley collection of house guests, Jeeves is on a mission to prevent Wooster from making an utter fool of himself (again).

"There's a lot that's meant to go wrong," admits Lance blithely. "Our first night – a lot actually went wrong and the show was quite a bit longer as a result. The audience loved it!"

Calling the piece a "joyous fantasy" he explains how honoured he is to play Bertie. "It was a huge privilege to be offered the part of Bertie Wooster, he's an iconic comedy character. He's really good fun to be; he's very light hearted, I think he has a very good heart, he's a sweet man. Not the sharpest tool in the box, obviously, but really full of enthusiasm. He's like an excitable Labrador."

There's only one real similarity between actor and character though: "I like to have a good time, and so does he. When you're doing eight shows a week, that means I can't really go out, so I decided to make my playtime being on stage."

Hopefully it's as entertaining for the rest of us.

Level 42

80s kids: Level 42 to play Cambridge Corn Exchange

THEY just don't make pop-rock jazz-funk bands like they used to, do they? Good job Level 42 are still going strong (yes, they split up between 1994 and 2001, but they've worked through it, give 'em a break).

First for med in 1979 on the Isle of Wight by front-man Mark King and Gould brothers Boon and Phil, they became an overnight success thanks to a flurry of critically acclaimed albums and some major backing from Polydor. By 1986, their single Lessons of Love went to number three in the charts and became their biggest hit to date.

Interest waned in the 90s though, so King went for it alone (with middling success), before serendipity (and a general trend of bands reforming), took hold and they got back together. The Goulds are no longer involved, and the current line-up reads like this: King on bass and vocals, Mike Lindup on keys, Nathan King on guitar, Sean Freeman on sax and drummer Pete Ray Biggin.

■ Level 42, Cambridge Corn Exchange, Friday, October 10, at 7.30pm. Tickets £27 from (01223) 357851 / cornex.co.uk.

The Assembly of Animals

DESIGNED by performance artist and painter Tim Spooner, The Assembly of Animals sounds completely magical.

Part show, part installation it's setting up at Cambridge Junction, revolving around a stage that slowly expands, lit by neon colours and submerged in murky blackness.

As the venue reshapes itself gradually, strange visions, colourful liquids, and, most excitingly, magnetic dogs(!), emerge from the darkness. In doing so, inch-by-inch they reveal their mechanics from the inside out. There are wires, contraptions and moments of madness waiting to unfold...

Presumably it's more beautiful and less complicated than it sounds though (remember the magnetic dogs), and is aimed at children (over 3s) as well as grown ups.

Adding to the ambience will also be pieces of puppetry and magic, sculpture and intriguing scientific demonstrations.

To truly understand, and be utterly mesmerised, you'll have to go along and find out what it's all about yourself.

■ Tim Spooner: The Assembly of Animals, Cambridge Junction, Sunday, October 12 at 11.30am, 2.30pm, 4.30pm. Tickets £6-£10 from (01223) 511511 / junction.co.uk.

Buying right tools

THE leaves are starting to fall, the lawn needs rejuvenating, the beds could do with a tidy-up, and over-crowded plants can be lifted and divided.

Autumn is potentially a busy time in the garden so it's essential to have the right tools for the job to help make the season relatively pain-free.

There are some tools which will make your life easier in autumn and if you invest in the best now, you will appreciate their quality in years to come. Here are some essential tools for particular jobs:

■ Trimming and pruning: Secateurs: There's a wealth of secateurs on the market but I would invest in a good quality pair that will last for years, if you look after them. Felco no 6 secateurs are ideal for small hands, with blades made from high quality carbon steel while the handles are made from forged aluminium alloy (£59.99, www.felco.com and Wyevale Garden Centres). Fiskars award-winning Quantum B100 bypass secateurs (£65) are also a good product, available nationwide in garden centres,

by Hannah Stephenson

DIY stores and online. Go to www.fiskars.co.uk

■ Clearing leaves: There are many rakes on the market but among the best is the Fiskars Garden Light Leaf Rake, available in medium or large, which has a tough plastic head and an ergonomically designed lightweight hardened aluminium shaft and comfortable soft grip handle. (RRP of £29.99 each, available nationwide at DIY stores, garden centres and online. Go to www.fiskars.co.uk). If you want mechanical help, try the Bosch ALS 2500 garden vacuum to collect the leaves from the patio and shred them – taking full advantage of the machine's 1:10 shredding ratio. (RRP £79.99, www.bosch-garden.com)

■ Lawn care: Springtime rakes: Wolf-Garten's springtime rake £29.99 (handles separate) www.wolfgarten-tools.co.uk, and through leading garden centres) is a good bet from its 'multi change' range, a selection of tool heads which fit every handle. Alternatively you can buy electric scarifiers, which are useful if you have a large lawn, or pushable manual versions. However, some of them can also rip up the grass so be careful which one you choose. Which? Gardening found the Al-Ko Combi-care 32VLE Comfort Lawn Rake/ Scarifier (£169, available www.al-ko.com or from Al-Ko dealers) to be its best buy in tests, complete with swapping cylinders, height adjustment and collection bag.

■ Autumn and winter digging: A good garden fork is perfect for this job. Buy the best quality one you can, as so many cheaper versions end up with prongs bending or even snapping under duress. You'll also need a fork to lift plants which you want to move or divide in autumn. Among the best is the made-in-UK Bulldog classic premier garden fork, which has a head made from a single piece of steel and an ash shaft and handle and comes with a lifetime guarantee. (RRP £50.67) or the smaller, lighter shrubbery fork (RRP 49.74) both available from www.qualitygarden-tools.com

■ Plant bulbs: You can use a hand trowel and fork to do this job, but bulb planters lift a core of soil, enabling you to plant bulbs quickly and are useful in soil that holds together well but is not too heavy. There are many good ones on the market, but instead of having to kneel to do the job you can buy them with a long handle so you can push the planter in with your foot. Burgon & Ball's Long Handled Bulb Planter was selected as a finalist for RHS Chelsea Garden Product of the year 2014 (RRP £29.95 available from www.burgonandball.com and many leading garden centres).

STURMER ROAD | HAVERHILL | CB9 8QL

THE first day of the paperless car tax system descended into chaos with the Driver and Vehicle Licensing Agency (DVLA) website buckling under "unprecedented demand" for the electronic version of the disc.

From October 1, vehicle owners will no longer have to display the vehicle excise duty (VED) disc on their screens, with those needing to renew their VED either doing it online at the DVLA's car tax website or at Post Office branches.

But many people have been unable to get on to the DVLA site, prompting the agency to issue an apology and to advise vehicle owners to "keep trying".

The AA reported that a number of its members had complained about not being able to access the DVLA site, with president Edmund King saying it was "a bit ironic in this digital

GONE: After 93 years the paper tax disc is no more age" that the system had been overwhelmed.

The DVLA said: "More than 270,000 people successfully used our online car tax service yesterday - that's 30,000 more than on the same day last year."

"We are currently experiencing unprecedented demand which means that some customers may be experiencing slow response times or having difficulty accessing the service."

"We are of course very sorry for any inconvenience and we are urgently investigating to improve service quality for the minority of our customers that are experiencing issues."

A DVLA spokeswoman said: "The system has not crashed - it's just slow at the moment. We are advising people to keep trying."

Earlier this year, in written evidence to the House of Commons Transport Committee, the AA said: "The AA believes that ailing mainframe systems like the vehicle and driver registers at DVLA have worked admirably well given what is now expected of them."

"However, they are no longer fit for purpose to deliver the motoring agencies' vision now proposed."

Yesterday, Mr King said: "We've had a number of our members coming on to us say that the DVLA car-tax site has crashed. It's a bit ironic in this digital age that the site goes down on the first day of the electronic system coming into being."

"I think that not only a lot of people have tried to get on to the site to renew their car tax but also a number have tried to access the site to find out how the changes to the car tax system affect them."

The car tax disc lasted 93 years, having been introduced in 1921.

Weaver treble sees Borough progress

RYAN Weaver's hat-trick fired Haverhill Borough through to the next round of the FA Vase in a 4-1 win at home to London Bari.

The visitors started brightly, but Weaver opened the scoring by firing in on the rebound after Lee Salmons had his shot parried by the keeper.

Ash Drew preserved Borough's slender lead by making a last-ditch clearance just before the interval.

Weaver added his second soon after the restart, latching on to a header from Salmons in behind the Bari defence.

Harry O'Connor headed home Halls' corner four minutes later and Weaver wrapped up the win on 75 minutes.

Bari did pull one back in the closing stages after Farrant had been sent off for a strong sliding tackle, but it had little bearing on the outcome as Borough now look forward to a trip to AFC Dunstable on November 1.

But Haverhill Rovers bowed out of the Vase after suffering a 4-0 defeat away to Bowers & Pitsea.

Rovers fell behind after 12 minutes and the visitors added a second just before the break.

Two more goals after half time sealed Rovers' fate.

Meanwhile, Weaver also bagged two goals to help Borough to a 4-1 victory over Halstead Town in the Thurlow Nunn League, First Division last night.

He fired the hosts ahead in the 10th minute and claimed Borough's second on 34 minutes, but it was ruled an own goal after going in off Halstead's keeper.

There was no doubt about Weaver's goal on 54 minutes, though.

Substitute Lee Hurkett grabbed the fourth 15 minutes from time, with Halstead getting a late consolation.

Hunt paves the way for cup victory

TWO Adam Hunt tries helped Haverhill book their place in the quarter-finals of the Cambridgeshire Intermediate Cup with a 37-3 victory away to Cambridge Exiles.

Hunt got the visitors on the scoreboard after just five minutes, keeping the ball from going into touch and racing clear for an unconverted try.

Lewis Catterick added the second on 15 minutes after breaking out from a push forward.

Haverhill gave away a penalty from the restart which allowed the Exiles to kick what would be their only points of the afternoon.

However, Kieran Ewens responded with a kick of his own to put the away side 13-3 up at the break.

Five minutes into the second half, Hunt grabbed his second try with Ewens converting.

Haverhill stalwart Paul Bergin finished off a good piece of back play, powering through the defence and dotting down before Ewens again kicked the extras.

Lester Cusey, on as a replacement for Joe Brown, rounded off the try-scoring with his first try for the senior team.

Ewens was the man providing the final pass and then slotted a difficult conversion attempt.

Haverhill are back in action this Saturday at home to Old Cantabrians.

Jones spot on in victory

SAM Jones saved three spot kicks as Haverhill Rovers beat Ransome Sports 3-2 on penalties in the Suffolk FA Minor Cup.

It ended 3-3 after extra time with Connor Bevan, Aaron Wiseman and David Scott scoring.

Billy Hunt's hat-trick, and one apiece for Freddie Hounsoms and Ollie Santry helped Aztecs White beat Red Lodge 5-2 in Cambridgeshire Mini Soccer League 11B.
